

How much time should I spend practicing?

Written by Mike Dean

Wednesday, 14 April 2010 00:01 - Last revised Saturday, 17 April 2010

---

It depends on how much time you have, how well you want to learn the guitar and how fast you would like to be playing the guitar. I have kept to a standard 1/2 hour per weekday requirement for my students and have seen them make some great progress when they keep on top of their daily practicing. For me, I remember almost every day after school (this was in highschool) playing the guitar for 1-3 hours almost every day. This resulted in quick progress and proficiency at playing my favorite songs. Dedication and consistent focused effort are key to learning any instrument.